

[Basic Policy]

Built on a foundation of security and trust
“the wings within ourselves” help to fulfill the hopes and dreams of an interconnected world.

ANA always offers safe and hospitable service in its air transportation service, in accordance with the above Mission Statement.

In ANA's business operations, our customers' personal information is essential for us to provide fully satisfactory services. We recognize the importance of the information received from our customers, and make efforts to take the utmost care in handling such information.

For our customers to utilize ANA with a sense of safety and trust, we educate our executives and employees thoroughly about laws and company regulations relating to personal information, and have established our company's structure to include measures for security, thereby exerting maximum effort toward appropriate management and use of each customer's personal information.

Chapter 1 describes the handling of personal information as it applies to all customers. Chapter 2, Chapter 3, and Chapter 4 provide region-specific information for customers who are located or reside in the European Economic Area/the United Kingdom, the People's Republic of China, and the state of California of the United States, respectively.

Chapter 1. ANA's Handling of Personal Information of All Customers

1. Introduction

This Privacy Policy explains how and why the personal information of customers and other individuals obtained by ALL NIPPON AIRWAYS CO., LTD. (“ANA”, “we”, “our” or “us”) is used. Please read this Privacy Policy carefully before providing personal information to ANA or using our products or services.

Chapter 1 of this Privacy Policy provides an overview of how we use your personal information.

Additional policies may apply to certain ANA products or services, details of which will be provided alongside the terms of such service.

2. Scope of application

The Privacy Policy will apply when customers and other individuals provide personal information to ANA or use ANA's services and products.

3. Purpose of using personal information

ANA utilizes personal information obtained from its customers for the following purposes. However, even within the intended scope, it will not use customers' personal information in a way that may encourage or induce illegal or improper conduct.

- (1) Reservations, ticket sales, check-in, airport services, and in-flight services with regard to air transport services

8. Business entrustment

In providing products and services to customers, ANA may entrust a part of its business operations to third parties to which personal information may also be disclosed to the extent required to achieve the purpose of the entrustment. In these cases, ANA will implement appropriate measures in managing and supervising such third parties to safeguard the handling of customers' personal information, including establishing agreements on the handling of such personal information.

9. Transfer to outside of Japan

Depending on customers' flight destinations, ANA may transfer their personal information (name, passport number, and travel details, etc.) to outside of Japan. The countries served by ANA can be found on ANA's website. The countries or regions to which customers' personal information is transferred may not have a system for personal information protection equivalent to Japan's.

If ANA provides customers' personal information to third party business operators outside of Japan, including entrusted companies and data sharing partners, ANA will do so based on customer consent, except in either of the following cases:

- (1) when the third party is located in a country specified by laws and regulations as one that has a personal information protection system equivalent to Japan's; or
- (2) when the third party has a system in place where it can continuously take measures corresponding to those that business operators handling personal information in Japan should take.

In the case of (2) above, ANA will take necessary and appropriate measures to ensure that the third party takes the corresponding measures on an ongoing basis. If you wish to know the details of ANA's measures, please make a request in accordance with "11. Request about handling of Personal Information".

10. Management of personal information

In receiving customers' personal information, ANA will manage such information according to the strictest standards and take necessary safety management measures to prevent leaks, loss, or alterations. ANA ensures that the board members and employees are properly trained regarding appropriate handling to safeguard the security of information identifying individual customers. An appropriate retention period for personal information will be established in accordance with the purpose for which such information is used. After the purpose of the information has been achieved, ANA will dispose of the information in question by appropriate methods.

If you wish to know the details of the safety management measures, please make a request in accordance with "11. Request about handling of Personal Information".

*For ANA's action policy for information security, please refer to "ANA Group Information Security".

https://www.ana.co.jp/group/en/csr/risk_management/security/

11. Request about handling of Personal Information

If ANA receives a request from a customer, submitted in the manner specified, for the disclosure, correction, deletion, addition, discontinuance of use, erasure, or information provision concerning the personal information protection measures referred to in "9. Transfer to outside of Japan" and "10. Management of personal information" ("disclosure, etc.") with regard to the customer's personal information stored in a database held by ANA, the request will be handled according to the laws and regulations as follows, within a reasonable timeframe and scope, after confirming that the request was submitted by the customer themselves.

- (1) Request for disclosure
Personal information items, purpose of use, or records on the provision of personal data to third parties will be disclosed in accordance with the customers' request.
- (2) Request for correction, deletion, or addition
Correction, deletion, or addition of personal information will be undertaken wherever possible after due review of the request.
- (3) Request for discontinuance or erasure
The use of personal information items designated by the customer will be discontinued, and the relevant information erased if so desired, in accordance with the submitted request. However, please note that such requests may prevent customers from being provided with services that they had utilized, or may impede the provision of services in accordance to their wishes.
- (4) Request for information provision concerning personal information protection measures
The following information will be provided in accordance with the customer's request.
 - 1) Details of the safety management measures taken by ANA in receiving customers' personal information
 - 2) Details of the measures taken by ANA when providing customers' personal information to third parties outside of Japan (in the case of "9. Transfer to outside of Japan" (2))

ANA may not be able to fulfill the customers' requests if compliance with such requests would seriously impact ANA's business operations, result in a violation of laws and regulations, or disrupt the safety management of personal information.

12. Submission of request for disclosure, etc.

Chapter 2. Handling of personal information of EEA and UK residents by ANA

1. Introduction

This Chapter 2 provides additional information about the handling of personal information of customers and other individuals in the European Economic Area (“EEA”) and/or the United Kingdom (“UK”) in accordance with EU General Data Protection Regulation 2016/679 (“GDPR”) and the UK Data Protection Act 2018 (“DPA 2018”) and other national and international data protection and privacy laws (together, “Data Protection Laws”).

Please note that the UK’s laws are similar to those in the EEA, and customers from both jurisdictions have very similar rights. Accordingly, references to the GDPR in this Chapter should also be read as references to corresponding UK law.

A guardian’s consent or permission must be obtained in the event that a customer under the age of 16 uses ANA’s service and consents to this Privacy Policy. The data subject’s consent to this Privacy Policy must be obtained in the event that a person such as family member apply for ANA’s service on behalf of the data subject.

In the event that any provisions of this Chapter 2 contradict those of Chapter 1, the provisions of this Chapter 2 shall prevail.

2. The controller of personal information

The controller of your personal information is ANA.

ANA protects personal information which is collected and used by controllers (who make decisions about how and why your personal information is used) and processors (who act on the controller’s written instructions) on the basis of Data Protection Laws.

3. Our lawful basis for processing personal information

ANA protects your personal information by ensuring that it can only be used to the extent necessary for specific purposes (as set out in Part 3 of Chapter 1 of this Privacy Policy) and by requiring that there is a lawful basis for each processing activity on the basis of Data Protection Laws.

ANA may process customer personal data on one or more of the following lawful bases:

- (1) When your consent is obtained to the processing (Article 6(1)(a) GDPR)
Consent will usually only be relied upon for promotional and marketing related processing, or in some cases, in relation to sensitive personal data.
- (2) When processing is necessary in order to perform or take steps to enter into a contract (Article 6(1)(b) GDPR).
This is typically why we process customer information which is essential to providing our services, including a customer’s identity, contact, payment and travel details, etc.
- (3) ANA needs to process the information to comply with a lawful obligation (Article 6(1)(c)). This includes the requirement to share personal information with customs and immigration authorities or law enforcement, as well ANA’s legal duties towards its staff and customers.
- (4) The information is required to protect your, or a third party’s, vital interests (Article 6(1)(d)), for example in the event of a medical emergency.
- (5) It is in ANA’s or a third party’s legitimate interests to process the personal data, and these interests are not overridden by your rights under Data Protection Laws (Article 6(1)(f) GDPR). This includes the use of personal information necessary to operate ANA’s business and also to maintain, develop and improve its products and services and provide the best possible customer experience.

4. Request about handling of Personal Information

(1) Data Protection Laws provide you with the following legal rights:

- 1) Request for disclosure: You can request copies of your personal information and details of how we process it.
- 2) Request for correction or updating: Corrections or updates to personal information will be undertaken wherever possible after due review of the request.
- 3) Request for erasure: You may request that we delete all or part of the personal information we hold about you. We will consider your request and, where the information is no longer required or the law does not permit us to continue to retain it, we will delete it.

4) Transferring your personal information: You can request a copy of your personal information in a structured, common, machine-readable format. This only applies to personal information which we obtain from you and process on the basis of your consent or in order to perform a contract, and which is processed by automated means.

5) Objecting to processing: You can object to processing which is carried out on the basis of our or a third party’s legitimate interests or for the purpose of direct marketing. We will stop processing your information unless we have a strong reason to continue which overrides your objection. If your objection is to direct marketing, we will always stop.

6) Restricting how your personal information is processed. You can limit how we process your personal information in certain circumstances. Where this applies, any processing of your personal information (other than storing it) will only be lawful with your consent or where required for legal claims, protecting certain rights or important public interest reasons.

7) The right to withdraw consent. If we are relying on consent to process your personal information, you have the right to withdraw that consent at any time.

Please note, the rights set out above are not absolute and do not apply in every situation. There are also legal exemptions which apply in some situations and mean a request may be refused. Of course, if a request is refused we will inform you of the reasons for this when we respond.

Records of requests made to us will be retained so that we can ensure we have complied with our legal obligations.

(2) Method for submitting request

You can exercise your rights free of charge (except in the case of unreasonable, excessive or repeated requests in which case we may charge a fee or refuse the request). The method for submitting request and contact information are as follows.

(Website)

Please send the required documents via webform listed on ANA’s website.

(https://www.ana.co.jp/other/faq_atena/meta/0519.html)

(Required documents)

- Form requesting disclosure (for EEA/UK residents).
- Form for various requests (for EEA/UK residents).

(3) Responding to a request

We will respond without delay and usually within one month. We may, in some cases, ask for identification or (if you are making the request on behalf of a third party) proof of your authority to submit a request. If your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests, it may take longer to provide a detailed response. Please also bear in mind that there are exceptions to the rights above and some situations where they do not apply.

If you are not satisfied with our response to a data protection request or if you think your personal information has been mishandled, then you have the right to complain to a supervisory authority. Please see Part 9 of this Chapter 2 (“Lodging a complaint with an authority”) for further details.

5. Data sharing which is necessary to provide products or services

ANA’s products and services are provided with the assistance of other companies and organizations and often ANA will need to share personal information with third parties in order to run its business. These third parties include:

- (1) Other companies in the ANA Group
- (2) Organizations with which ANA is legally required to share personal information including: government organizations, regulatory and law enforcement authorities, judicial, customs and immigration authorities, third-party organization, etc.
- (3) Service providers including: subcontractor handling ANA flights, airports and airlines who we partner with, various service providers, providers with whom we have a marketing partnership, etc.

Where ANA instructs companies, contractors or service providers to process data on its behalf, then it will ensure that it does so pursuant to a contract which meets the requirements of applicable Data Protection Laws.

6. Marketing communications

ANA sends out marketing communications from time to time to notify interested persons of news and provide details of products and services which may be of interest to them. ANA will only do this if the recipient has consented to receive marketing or if they are an existing customer who purchased products or services from ANA and were given the opportunity to opt-out from marketing at the time but chose not to do so.

7. Where your personal information is stored and transferred

ANA is located in Japan and many of the service providers and other organizations with whom we share your personal information will be located in jurisdictions outside the EEA and UK. It should be noted that Japan has been recognized by the European Commission as providing adequate protection for personal information.

When transferring personal information to third parties ANA will ensure that it complies with the requirements of Data Protection Laws, including the onward transfer requirements of the EU-Japan adequacy decision and related Japanese laws. However, you should be aware that recipients outside the EEA and UK may be subject to national laws which do not necessarily provide equivalent protection for your personal data. If you would like more information regarding where your personal information is stored and transferred please contact ANA using the details set out in Part 12 of this Chapter 1 ("Submission of request for disclosure, etc.").

8. Retention of personal information

ANA retains customers' personal information until the purpose of use is achieved. Particularly, ANA has set the retention period for personal information as follows. For most other personal information, the appropriate retention period will be determined based on the nature of the information and the purpose for having it by reference to legal and accounting requirements and our business needs.

- (1) Personal information of ANA Mileage Club membership
Until withdrawal of the ANA Mileage Club membership
- (2) Personal information of passengers
Until completion of transportation and related services stipulated in Conditions of Carriage for Domestic Flights and Conditions of Carriage for International Flights
- (3) Other personal information
Required period for the purpose which customers have consented

9. Lodging a complaint with an authority

Customers have the right to lodge a complaint on the processing of their personal information with the data protection authority having jurisdiction over their residence.

- (1) EEA residents: Please contact your national supervisory authority, details of which can be found on the European Data Protection Board's website (https://edpb.europa.eu/about-edpb/board/members_en).
- (2) UK residents: Please contact the Information Commissioner's Office (www.ico.org.uk).

10. The contact information of the controller and ANA's Data Protection Officer

4. Technology and measure to protect customers' personal information

- (1) ANA takes security measures to protect customers' personal information from leakage, alteration or loss. Specifically, ANA takes the following measures to protect customers' personal information.
 - ANA establishes and implements an internal management system and operational rules relating to the protection of personal information.
 - ANA conducts classification management for personal information.
 - ANA develops website with https and sets SSL encryption to secure important customers' data (credit card information, etc.) communication between the customers' web browser and the server.
 - ANA uses encryption technology for protecting personal information.
 - ANA allocates access rights reasonably and controls access, so that access by unauthorized persons to personal information will be prevented.
 - In order to raise employee awareness of the importance of protecting personal information, ANA provides education and training on security and privacy protection.
 - ANA establishes emergency responses for personal information incidents and prepares for their implementation.
- (2) ANA will take all reasonable and practicable steps to ensure that no irrelevant personal information is collected. ANA will only retain customers' personal information for the shortest period of time required to achieve the purposes stated in this Privacy Policy, unless an extension of the retention period is permitted by law.

- (3) In the event of a personal information incident, ANA will promptly inform customers of the relevant circumstances of the incident in accordance with the requirements of PIPL, etc. and report to the regulatory authorities.

5. Request about handling of Personal Information

In the event that ANA receives a request regarding the personal information it holds of a customer who is a resident of China, the request will be handled in a reasonable timeframe and scope in accordance with PIPL, etc. and Chapter 1 "Article 11 Request about handling of Personal Information". In responding to the request, ANA may confirm that it was submitted by the customer himself/herself.

- (1) Request for withdrawal of consent
If the handling of the customer's personal information is based on his/her consent, the customer has the right to withdraw such consent. Personal information items designated by the customer will be deleted in accordance with the customer's request, wherever possible and appropriate. However, please note that such deletion may prevent customers from being provided with services that they had utilized, or may impede the provision of services in accordance with their wishes.
- (2) Request for interpretation/explanation of Privacy Policy
Customers have the right to ask for the interpretation/explanation of this Privacy Policy.
- (3) Methods for submission of requests
Customers may submit requests by following methods.

Chapter 4. Handling of personal information of California residents by ANA

Last updated on December 1, 2021

Besides Chapter 1, Chapter 4 also shall be applied to the handling of personal information of persons residing in California, United States of America based on the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 (hereinafter “CCPA”). In the event that any provisions of this chapter contradict those of chapter 1, the provisions of this chapter shall prevail.

The terms used in this chapter are based on the definitions provided in CCPA. For example, the term “sale”, among others, means ANA’s selling, lending, releasing, disclosing, disseminating, making available, transferring, or otherwise communicating orally, in writing, or by electronic or other means, a consumer’s personal information to another business or a third party for monetary or other valuable consideration. However, if ANA concludes an appropriate agreement concerning the handling of personal information with another business or a third party, the activities mentioned above are not regarded as “sale” from the perspective of CCPA.

1. Acquisition and use of personal information

Personal information collected by ANA in the preceding 12 months or likely to be collected in the future is classified as defined in the following table. ANA uses such information for the purposes set forth in Chapter 1, Article 3 (Purpose of using personal information). It will acquire such personal information directly from customers.

3. Request about handling of Personal Information

Customers living in California have the following rights concerning their personal information:

(1) Access right

Customers have the right to make a request to ANA for the disclosure of the following information regarding their personal information collected/used/disclosed by ANA within the 12 months before the date of request (hereinafter "Access Right"), up to twice in 12 months.

- Type of the customer's personal information collected by ANA
- Source of the collection of such personal information
- Business or commercial purposes for the collection of such personal information
- Type of third party with which such personal information has been shared
- The customer's specific personal information collected by ANA
- Type of the customer's personal information disclosed by ANA for a business purpose
- Type of third parties to which each type of such personal information has been disclosed

(2) Deletion right

Customers have the right to make a request to ANA for the deletion of their certain personal information collected by ANA (hereinafter "Deletion Right").

When exercising the Access Right or Deletion Right, please contact the following. Once ANA receives such a request, it will be handled according to the related laws and regulations within a reasonable timeframe and manner, after confirming, through the procedures for individual identification described below, that the request was submitted by the customer himself/herself.

1) Submission of requests

2) Procedures for individual identification

<For individuals>

Upon receiving a request for the exercise of the Access Right or Deletion Right, ANA will ask the customer to submit information sufficient to confirm that such request was submitted by such customer himself/herself, such as his/her name and email address, and compare the submitted information with the information held by ANA.

<For representatives>

In addition to the information required for the identification of individual in "<For individuals>," a power of attorney (legal representatives must provide a certifying document) needs to be submitted. In addition, ANA may ask the customer to directly contact ANA to confirm that he/she has granted the representative authority to exercise the Access Right or Deletion Right.

As a rule, ANA will not treat customers who have submitted such requests in a discriminatory manner, such as changing their services. Even so, please note that deletion requests may prevent customers from receiving services which they have been provided with, or may impede the provision of services that are in accordance with their needs.
