

ANA Unveils its Timetable for New Narita-Manila Route

- ANA widens choice for Southeast Asian travelers -

TOKYO January 11, 2011 - All Nippon Airways (ANA), Japan's leading carrier, today unveiled its new route schedule for services from Tokyo Narita to Manila, which will start from February 27 this year.

Manila, capital of Philippines, is one of the biggest air traffic hubs in Southeast Asia. ANA's new Tokyo Narita-Manila service will not only link the two big cities, but also connect demand for onward travel to North America by convenient transfer at Narita.

ANA's current Southeast Asian network includes routes from Narita to Bangkok, Singapore and Ho-Chi-Minh City, as well as Haneda to Bangkok and Singapore. The latter route started operating from the new international terminal at Haneda last October. Together with the Narita-Jakarta service, which was launched on January 7, the inauguration of the Narita-Manila service will enable ANA to operate a total of nine daily flights serving seven routes to five Southeast Asian destinations, widening choice for passengers traveling between Japan and Southeast Asia.

Details of the service are as follows (Subject to approval by relevant authorities):

Route	Narita to/from Manila
Service Starts	February 27, 2011 (Sunday) *Flights from Manila will operate from Monday, February 28.
Timetable (Local time)	NH949	Narita	17:55	Manila	21:55
	NH950	Manila	09:50	Narita	14:55
	*Operate everyday and from Terminal 3 at Manila's Ninoy Aquino International Airport.
Aircraft	Boeing 767-300ER (Business Class:35; Economy Class:179)

* This may differ according to daily aircraft and operating conditions.

Contact: ANA Public Relations TEL +81-3-6735-1111