

Withdrawal of Narita - Seoul route from March 31, 2013

TOKYO December 3, 2012 – ANA Group, Japan's largest airline group, today announces that from March 31, 2013 it will suspend its service between Tokyo's Narita airport and Seoul (Incheon). The decision to suspend the service reflects the marked decline in demand on the route, particularly amongst business passengers who prefer to use the Haneda to Seoul (Gimpo) service.

ANA apologizes to customers for any inconvenience that this decision may cause.

ANA will continue monitor the level of demand closely and will announce any further changes in due course.

Route	Current service	Aircraft used
Narita = Seoul (Incheon)	7/ week (daily)	A320

Contact: Ryosei Nomura and Megumi Tezuka, ANA Public Relations
TEL +81-3-6735-1111